Khrush Gives Finns Lecture, Returns Home

Nikita Takes Traditional Hot Bath

HELSINKI, Finland (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev took a traditional Finnish hot bath and stayed up until 5 a.m. Sunday talking world problems with President Urho Kekkonen. Then he lectured Finns on the importance of friendly relations with the Soviet Union and went home. But before leaving at 7:30 p.m. aboard his special train for Moscow, Khrushchev made an apparent trade concession to Finland in exchange for Finnish support of his thesis that Norway and Denmark should get out of the Western Alliance. Finland has been sounding out Soviet sentiment on Finnish plans to associate with the European free trade area of Britain, Norway, Denmark, Sweden, Switzerland and Austria without actually joining. The Soviet Union gave qualified agreement to this, said a final communique signed by the two leaders. At the same time, the two leaders "expressed their firm intention of doing all within their power to keep the northern European region outside the field of international tension and controversy." This was aimed squarely at Norway and Denmark, whose membership in NATO was criticized by Khrushchev in a speech Saturday night at a 60th birthday party for Kekkonen. He said they should follow Finland's neutralist policy. Finns admitted themselves a bit shocked when Khrushchev launched his attacks on Germany, Denmark, Norway and NATO in his salute to Kekkonen. One morning newspaper, mindful of Finland's ancient ties with its Scandinavian neighbors, criticized Khrushchev for the speech. The Finns were further disturbed by the stern tone adopted by Khrushchev Saturday at lunch. In a somewhat less than comradely speech he told Finns the Soviet Union could not remain "disinterested" to criticism from Finnish parties and individuals who disapproved of Soviet policies. He lectured them again Sunday at lunch on the benefits of continued close economic association with the Soviet Union, a talk which Finns immediately associated unhappily with the Soviet dislike of Western trade agreements. His reception by Finns was neither warm nor frigid, just more or less disinterested. The midnight bath followed shortly after the theatre party Saturday night, the highlight of Kekkonen's birthday celebration. Khrushchev first drove to the mansion amid the pines on Summer Beach where he has been staying. Reporters thinking him safely tucked in bed, left to write their stories. Shortly afterward he drove out to Kekkonen's home, Oak Point. There is a centuries-old Finnish tradition that a welcome guest must be first given a hot bath interspersed with splashes of cold water and a whacking with leafy birch branches. Khrushchev and Kekkonen took the long bath, in the sauna, or bath house, then went into the house for sandwiches, drinks and talks until about 5 a.m. Then Khrushchev drove back to his place and slept late.

Ike Hails U.S. Labor, Cites Red Threat

AFL-CIO's Meany Criticizes Foreign, Domestic Policies

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower praised American workers and warned of communism in his Labor Day statement Sunday. Union leaders did the same—but they found fault with U.S. foreign policy and domestic economy and pledged political action to solve problems abroad and at home. The President said, "I reaffirm my faith in the traditions of America's working men and women." "By freely asserting our rights as citizens, we have improved our standards of living, bettered our working conditions, and achieved greater security for ourselves and our families than any other society in the history of mankind," he continued.

Red Challenge Serious

But he warned of the challenge of communism and called their system "a powerful machine, capable and ruthless, but it lacks one essential element: the spark of freedom which Americans hold most dear, and without which no sustained or satisfying achievement is possible."

George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, in his statement put preservation of world peace and freedom foremost but went on: "We cannot fail to become alarmed at the open intervention of the Communists in the trouble spots in Asia, the Near East, Africa and even Latin America. If our policy is to contain the spread of communism we have got to do a better job."

Meany, whose organization has endorsed the Democratic presidential ticket, then went on to criticize "a do-nothing government policy" which he said is evidenced in "chronically high unemployment, in staggering food surpluses, in the depressed areas of our country, in the shortage of schools for our children."

Reuther Raps Congress

In another statement, the Industrial Union Department of the AFL-CIO, headed by Walter P. Reuther, rapped the just-concluded session of Congress for what he termed inaction, and reported five per cent unemployment and idleness of 20 per cent of U.S. industrial capacity.

"The great challenge of the Sixties is to end this appalling waste in the American economic system," it said.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the Republican nominee for president, also issued a statement in which he praised collective bargaining — without government domination.

Drug Probe To Reopen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Estes Kefauver reopens the controversial Senate drug investigation Wednesday with the spotlight on the $700 million-a-year antibiotics industry.

Kefauver, D-Tenn., chairman of the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly Subcommittee, has called the presidents of four of the nation's largest drug companies to testify at the hearings.

The inquiry has won both praise and brickbats for its exposure of alleged high prices and profits in the drug industry.

The lead-off witness Wednesday will be Dr. Wilbur G. Malcolm, president of the American Cyanamid Co., New York, N. Y., which manufactures aureomycin and tetracycline.

Brandt Warns Of Red Tactics To Soften West

BERLIN (AP) — Mayor Willy Brandt of West Berlin warned Sunday night more trouble is coming for this isolated city from a Communist plot to wear down Western resistance. Brandt said he expects a series of Communist actions spread over several months.

"With a drumfire of chicanery they want to soften up the West psychologically and make them ready for a rotten compromise," Brandt said in a radio speech.

He spoke a few hours before the latest East German restrictions on travel to Berlin ended. The city government said in the five days of the ban Communist border guards had turned back 1,004 would-be travelers to the city, 110 miles behind the Iron Curtain. The city's offer of free air passage to carry hindered travelers over the heads of the Communist blockaders was accepted by 695 persons.

Brandt said Communist harassment of travelers was part of a long-prepared plan to convince the free world Berlin is to be a constant source of unrest.

Proclaiming "total agreement with our Western friends," Brandt said, "We will not remain idle—we will give the answer required by the provocation."

The Communists fired their last shot Sunday at a rally of Germans expelled from Eastern Europe by the conquering Red army 15 years ago. It was a volley of rocket-borne leaflets condemning the participants as "revenge-seekers and militarists." This rally had been used by the Red regime as an excuse for banning West German travel to the city.

Some rockets reproduced claims by deserters from the West German army that West Germany is planning aggressive nuclear war.

Gls Pay Tribute To Shell Victims

GRAFENWOEHR, Germany. (AP) — Three thousand American soldiers paid tribute Sunday at a simple memorial service to 16 comrades, victims of an army training accident Friday.

In a field overlooking the scene of the accident in this north Bavarian training area near the Iron Curtain border of Communist Czechoslovakia, troopers of the 3rd Armored Division assembled in a hollow—with 16 gaps in the ranks — before an altar erected between two fir trees.

They heard a chaplain, Capt. Merrill O. Challman of Moline, Ill., urge them "to go on as an even more successful part of the team which most assuredly protects our loved ones and all that we value so much in the free way of life."

Sixteen steel helmets arrayed on tables near the altar bore mute testimony to the accident which killed 15 men outright and wounded 27 when an overcharged eight-inch howitzer shell overshot an artillery range and landed in a tent camp. One of the two seriously injured troopers died Saturday.

Road Death Toll Hits Faster Clip

By United Press International

The highway death toll took an alarming spurt Sunday night as motorists passed the mid-point of summer's last long holiday.

A United Press International count at 6:20 p.m. e.d.t. showed that 249 have been killed in traffic accidents since the Labor Day weekend began at 6 p.m. Friday.

The National Safety Council has estimated that 460 persons would die in traffic before the weekend ends Monday at midnight.

"The toll had been running about the same as last year, until tonight when it has taken an alarming spurt," said the safety council. "It now appears certain that our estimate will be reached—and perhaps passed."

Three large states were helping swell the toll. They were California with 30 deaths; Texas with 18, and Pennsylvania with 16.

In addition, there were holiday deaths from other causes. Drownings claimed 33 lives and 37 persons died in miscellaneous accidents.

Continued hot weather in most sections of the nation worried safety officials because such conditions normally result in more drivers on the roads and streets. "The only antidote is to slow down, be careful," a council spokesman said.

Typical of the weekend smash-ups were two early Sunday in Illinois, within a 20-mile area, in which five youths died. One accident, a head-on collision at high speed, killed three persons, including a brother and his sister.

The second accident involved only one auto, which police said apparently was traveling at high speed, missed a curve and crashed into a tree, killing two teenagers and injuring a third.

Hot, humid temperatures continued to dominate a wide section of the nation, but cool weather covered the Pacific Northwest. Most of the eastern two-thirds of the country enjoyed sunny skies, but a few showers dampened outings from northern New England to lower Michigan, and along the Gulf and south Atlantic coasts.

Nixon Confident Tour Will Make Up Lost Ground

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon was pictured Sunday as confident that his whirlwind campaigning that is due to start next week will enable him to make up any ground he lost during his hospital stay.

The GOP presidential candidate's press secretary, Herbert G. Klein, in reporting this, said doctors at Walter Reed Army Medical Center are encouraged by the progress Nixon is making. They feel he will be ready to leave the hospital Sept. 11 and hit the campaign trail on scheduled Sept. 12.

Klein said Nixon "continues to respond extremely well to penicillin and erythromycin therapy in his infected left knee."

The vice president's knee, he reported, was removed from traction Saturday night for the first time since he entered the hospital on Monday of last week. But the sand bag weights to keep the knee immobilized were put back Sunday.

Plans were to remove the traction again Sunday night and probably put it back on Monday morning.

Mother And Three Children Die In Fire

BOSTON (AP) — A mother and three of her children perished early Sunday in a fire which swept their top-floor apartment in a three-story wooden dwelling in the Jamaica Plain district.

The dead were: Ann Marie De Lillo, 30; her daughters, Mary Patricia, 6, and Joan, 7 months, and her son, Paul Joseph, 3.

A fourth child, Margaret, 9, was overcome by smoke and suffered minor burns.

Police said Mrs. De Lillo and her husband were separated.

Kennedy Ends Alaskan Swing By Blasting Ike

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts is aiming his political arrows at President Eisenhower — and technically ignoring Vice President Richard M. Nixon—in a fast-moving campaign.

Before boarding a jet plane for Detroit, Mich., for a traditional Democratic nominee's Labor Day speech in the Motor City, Kennedy whirled through a series of speaking dates here. In them he slammed at Eisenhower as the architect of a "stand still" policy he said is costing the nation its world leadership.

His only mention of Nixon was to express the hope that his GOP presidential rival, would visit Alaska to share in what Kennedy said is "an education for all of us" in economic progress from scratch.

Alaska has a meager three electoral votes. But Kennedy campaigned hard for them in a 22-hour day which began in Washington Saturday, took him to San Francisco and wound up with appearances in Palmer, Alaska and Anchorage.

He said he had promised the Alaska delegation at the Democratic National Convention in Los Angeles he would open his campaign in the 49th state. He added that he was keeping his promise "as I shall keep all my promises."

Standing on a platform laden with produce from the Matanuska Valley, Kennedy told an applauding crowd of about 2,000 persons at the Palmer State Fair that Alaska cannot flourish "under an administration that acts only through the negative, empty, arbitrary method of presidential vetoes."

Alaskans are not noted for their demonstrativeness and they gave Kennedy a warm, but not boisterous, welcome.

APPLETON, Wis. (UPI)—Autos driven by Richard Penkala, 29, and his wife Dorothy, 23, collided at an intersection here Sunday. Both were taken to a hospital—suffering from shock.

Rock 'n' Roll Fans Wreck Ballroom, Battle Police

PORTLAND Ore. (AP) — Nearly 1,000 dancers wrecked a ballroom and battled police Saturday night after the rock 'n' roll man they paid $2.50 a head to hear didn't show up.

Nineteen persons were jailed. Police used night sticks and fire hoses to disperse the crowd.

One officer, Eugene Center, had a bad gash in his left cheek. Robert Olson, editor of the Enumclaw, Wash., Courier-Herald, said he just had emerged with his wife from a restaurant nearby.

"There were four policemen in front of the place when all these people came rolling out the door and right over them, knocking them down," he said.

Olson saw two girls hurtle out of a window. "It looked as if they were thrown, and they landed on top of a parked car." Windows in nearby buildings and cars were smashed.

Kasai 'Army' Volunteers Moving Up

Column Reported Advancing Against Lumumba Forces

ELISABETHVILLE, the Congo (AP)—A column of secessionist Albert Kalonji's volunteers was reported advancing in Kasai Province Sunday against Congo Premier Patrice Lumumba's forces. But another column pulled back without fighting a battle, according to information reaching here.

The column that pulled back crossed from this rebellious province of Katanga Saturday and headed for Luputa. This town is 20 miles inside Kasai. It was considered a potential jump-off point for Lumumba's invasion of Katanga after he disposed of Kalonji's Kasai "army."

But advice reaching this Katanga capital said scouts found most tribes in the Luputa area favored Lumumba. There was little support for Kalonji and the Kasai "Mineral State" he proclaimed recently and allied with Katanga.

Columns May Join

The column near Luputa appears to be much smaller than the 250 men reported. It will probably join with a second and larger column farther east.

This larger column consists of about 250 uniformed troops armed with rifles and a few Belgian automatic rifles, plus 250 porters carrying ammunition and supplies.

The men with rifles and automatic weapons are mostly former members of the Congo army who had considerable training in the handling of firearms.

Kalonji's youth movement—militant supporters of Kalonji's old political party—are believed to be harassing the Congo troops in southern Kasai. Kalonji's invasion force will probably try to join with them and other supporters in the area which was always known for its anti-Lumumba sentiments.

A Katanga army spokesman refused to give the position of Kalonji's little volunteer army with its white advisers—mostly Belgians. But no opposition has been reported.

Kalonji's Capital Seized

The announced objective of the volunteers is to win back the "Mineral State" Kalonji created. Bakwanga, Kalonji's capital was seized by Lumumba's Congo army last week. Baluba tribal guerrillas at last report were harassing Congolese troops holed up in Bakwanga, a diamond center.

A U.N. spokesman had no information on the progress of the volunteers. Nor was there confirmation of charges by Premier Joseph Ngalula of the "Mineral State" that Congo army soldiers massacred 300 Negroes in Bakwanga a week ago, including David Odeia, the Mineral State's public works minister.

The Katanga army spokesman also showed concern about reports that the Congo army was building up for a strike into Katanga Province.

The spokesman said the Katanga army is "taking the necessary steps" to deal with any invasion of the province from the north. He declined to elaborate. But main roads into Katanga from the north previously were reported mined and Katanga frontier units have been reinforced.

Former Adviser To Chiang Arrested

TAIPEI (UPI) — Lei Chen, once an adviser to president Chiang Kai-shek and now his most outspoken critic, was arrested Sunday by Nationalist Chinese police on charges of sedition against the state.

The Formosa garrison command said government security agents had arrested Lei, a magazine publisher, and three members of his magazine staff. Lei has been trying to organize a new opposition political party.

Supporters Shout Approval Of Castro Ties With Peiping

HAVANA (AP) — Prime Minister Fidel Castro's supporters massed in major Cuban cities Sunday to shout approval of their bearded leader's "Declaration of Havana," formally establishing diplomatic relations with Red China.

Speakers at the rallies, called by the giant, left-wing Cuban Federation of Labor, echoed Castro's Friday night address blasting the United States, the Organization of American States and Nationalist China.

Meanwhile, Nationalist Chinese Ambassador Liu Yu-wan and his staff packed for an early departure. Liu said he still has not received formal notification of the Castro regime's decision to break diplomatic relations with his government.

Preparing to leave with Liu are executives of the Havana branch of the Bank of Nationalist China.

Duke Reportedly Will Marry Today

LONDON (AP) — The Duke of Bedford is reported to have set Monday for his hush-hush wedding date with vivacious French TV producer Nicole Milnair.

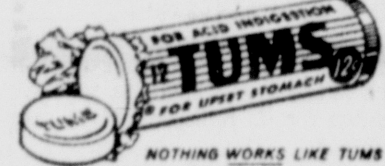

Time and place of the wedding have so far been kept secret because the duke, one of the gayer sparks in England's aristocracy, wants to sell exclusive publicity rights to the highest bidder.

The Sunday Pictorial, which is publishing Miss Milnair's story on "My Love for the Duke," said the marriage will take place in London at Caxton Hall register office.

The duke, 43, was divorced by his second wife earlier this year on grounds of adultery with night club hostess Annabelle Lee.

William O'Neil Of General Tire Dies In Akron

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — William Francis O'Neil, 75, cofounder and board chairman of the General Tire & Rubber Co.—one of the "big five" of the rubber industry—died Sunday at his home here.

He had been suffering from a heart ailment about a year and was stricken with pneumonia four days ago.

O'Neil started in the rubber industry more than 50 years ago as a tire salesman. He started General Tire in 1915 and saw it grow into one of the 50 largest corporations in the world.

He turned over the presidency of the firm last year to a son, Michael G., but continued as board chairman.

Other survivors are the widow, Grace; a daughter, Grace Regan; three other sons, William M. of Miami, Fla., John J. of New York and Thomas F., vice chairman of General Tire, and two sisters and two brothers.

Requiem High Mass will be celebrated at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday at St. Sebastian church here. O'Neil first became interested in the rubber industry when he had the Kansas City territory as a salesman for the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. He and W. E. Fouse, later associated with him in General, founded the Western Tire & Rubber Co., a tire accessory firm, in the rear of his Kansas City store. By 1914 it had a $500,000 annual sales volume and was the largest such concern in the country. A year later he returned to Akron, center of the rubber industry, and started the General Tire & Rubber Co.

General Tire branched out into other industries, too. It became owner of RKO Teleradio Pictures, Inc., now known as RKO General, and also controls the Aerojet-General Corp. of Azusa, Calif. The latter firm makes motors for guided missiles and jet-assist takeoff devices for aircraft.

Tawes Dedicates Thomas Memorial

CRISFIELD, Md. (AP) — Gov. Tawes Sunday dedicated a memorial here to Joshua Thomas, Somerset County's beloved "parson of the islands."

Tawes called the early 19th century Methodist minister "a great religious leader... who, following in the footsteps of his divine master, spent his life in humility and selflessly ministering to his fellowmen."

The memory of him that still exists in Somerset County, more than a hundred years after he was buried on Deal Island, "is the most generally beloved kind of shrine that can exist," the governor said.

Tawes spoke at services held at St. Peter's Church here where Thomas preached his first sermon. A pageant in memory of Thomas was held as part of Crisfield's annual Hard Crab Derby.

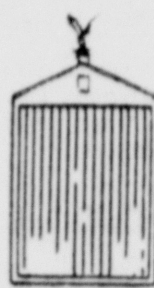

Arends Would Like Nixon To Face Khrush

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House Republican whip Leslie Arends said Sunday he would like to see Vice President Richard M. Nixon rather than President Eisenhower confront Nikita Khrushchev at the forthcoming United Nations General Assembly meeting.

In fact, he said, he would like to see the Republican presidential candidate on one side of the Soviet premier and Henry Cabot Lodge, his vice presidential running mate and retiring U. N. ambassador, on the other.

He said they could talk tough to Khrushchev and the American public likes that.

The actual solar day is 24 hours long only four times a year.

Bogota Police Guard Against Possible Riots

BOGOTA, Columbia (AP) — Heavily armed police and army units Sunday whipped through a rehearsal of security measures designed to smash any demonstrations against a special inter-American economic conference that opens here Monday.

The government ordered the measures in the wake of reports that Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro has urged Colombian labor organizations to stage mass protests against the conference.

Soldiers and armored vehicles took up posts at strategic points in the city. Government officials still remember the bloody riots of 1948 that took more than 1,000 lives and temporarily disrupted a conference which created the Organization of American States. Castro was reported to have participated in those riots.

Cuba walked out of the OAS foreign ministers' conference in Costa Rica Aug. 28 after the group condemned Communist intervention in the hemisphere. Castro, however, is expected to be represented at the economic talks.

One of the highlights of the 10-day meeting will be a U.S. offer to create a special $500 million fund for so-called social purpose projects in Latin America. The fund would help finance improvements in rural living conditions, land use, housing, community facilities and educational systems.

The U.S. proposal will be presented by Undersecretary of State Douglas Dillon, probably Tuesday. Along with the fund offer, he will suggest that Latin-American nations review their tax systems in an effort to produce more revenue for economic development and social welfare.

LA PLATA, Md. (AP) — A hearing has been set for Sept. 9 to determine if a rented building will be used for registration and balloting in the November election in Charles County's 5th District. The date was set by Judge Dudley Digges Saturday after Bennett Crain of Mt. Victoria, a Charles County attorney, brought the court action to block use of the building.

His petition asked that the Board of Supervisors of Elections be ordered to use one or more public buildings for registrations and a polling place.

Book Questions Military Talent Of Montgomery

LONDON (AP) — A book being published Monday calls Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery a self-publicizing megalomaniac with limited military talent. It also maintains Montgomery's victory at El Alamein was won in an unnecessary battle.

These charges are made by a former British army sergeant, Correlli Barnett, who was only 12 when Montgomery's forces fought with German Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's Afrika Korps in North Africa in the autumn of 1942.

British Sunday newspapers predicted the book, "The Desert Generals," will add new fuel to the who-won-the-war arguments which have been going on since 1945.

One paper, The People, quoted Montgomery as saying he had never heard of Barnett and had no intention of reading the book. The reviewer in the Sunday Observer said some of the book's charges have been whispered by some military men for 15 years "and perhaps it is as well they should come into the open."

Barnett studied the theory of war at Exeter College, Oxford. His main thesis revolves around this point: El Alamein, fought on the approaches to Cairo, took place only a couple of weeks before the American-British landing in French North Africa. Those landings guaranteed that Montgomery would win since Rommel would have to retreat to avoid being trapped.

Episcopal Bishop Pike Lashes Out At Bigotry

DETROIT (AP) — Episcopal Bishop James A. Pike declared here Sunday that "to seek to persuade citizens that they should in no ways vote for a man simply because he is a Roman Catholic is outright bigotry."

The circulation of what he termed "hate literature" attacking the Roman Catholic Church and Sen. John F. Kennedy, Democratic presidential candidate, was called "un-American activity" in a sermon prepared by Bishop Pike for delivery at sunrise service at the Michigan State Fair.

The Rev. Mr. Pike is bishop of the Episcopal diocese of California and himself a convert from Catholicism. The fair's sunrise service normally attracts 10,000 persons.

"We criticize—and justly so—other nations for religious discrimination—Russia for discrimination against those of Jewish faith and its severe limitation on the Greek Orthodox and other Christian churches; Spain and Latin America for discrimination against Protestants, and the like. "But a situation is rapidly developing in the United States—and particularly mounting in the last few weeks—which should cause us to turn our attention to our own nation in this regard."

Q. 1—As South you hold:

AK6 ♥AK5 ♦10983 ♣AKQ
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
2 NT Pass 3 ♣ Pass

A.—Four spades. Nothing more aggressive is indicated. Your opening bid of two no trump was based on 23 points and has the infirmity of an unstopped suit, which is exceptional. Unless partner can take aggressive action on the next round, there will be no slam.

Q. 2—As South you hold:

62 ♥K642 ♦K53 ♣K842
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South
1 ♠ Double ?
What do you bid?

A.—If you are to have a voice in the proceedings, it is now or never, and it is my recommendation that you avoid being shut out. Bid one no trump. This will inform partner that you have scattered values. If you choose to pass, the bidding may progress at so rapid a pace that you may never have the opportunity to enter the picture, for your values are not sufficient to justify doubling the opponents at any low contract which they may reach.

Q. 3—As South you hold:

A6 ♥9 ♦AK964 ♣AK876
The bidding has proceeded:
East South
What do you bid?

A.—Double. While normally we are disinclined to make a take-out double with hands containing two suits, no other form of action is suitable with a hand so rich in high card values. A false cue bid of two hearts cannot be accepted, first, because insistence upon a game will not be justifiable; secondly, not sufficient trump support is held for spades should partner have to play that suit.

Q. 4—As South you hold:

AK842 ♥AQJ3 ♦7 ♣Q92
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♣ Pass 1 ♠ Pass
2 ♠ Pass 3 ♥ Pass
3 ♠ Pass ?
What do you bid now?

A.—Four clubs. This does not indicate a desire to play at the minor suit but, rather, a desperate bid on the way to what looks like a certain slam. The next step will depend upon the character of partner's response. In a less scientific atmosphere, even a direct sporting chance at a slam in spades would not be regarded as out of line.

Q. 5—As South you hold:

642 ♥932 ♦AJ94 ♣Q9
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 1 NT Pass
2 ♥ Pass ?
What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. If there is the least temptation to raise the hearts, it should be resisted. Partner has not indicated any special strength by his bid of two hearts. He has designated that his hand is not suitable for a no trump play. From your standpoint the hand is not impressive. Your response of one no trump was based on a high card holding of only seven points, just a point above minimum. There is, therefore, no occasion for you to take further action.

Q. 6—Partner opens with one no trump and you hold:

A984 ♥K9 ♦AJ842 ♣85
What is your response?

A.—Three diamonds. You have sufficient high card strength for a jump to three no trump (12 points), but the three diamond bid is superior, for it will result with the same result, but added advantage of providing partner with the opportunity to bid three spades if he happens to have a four card major suit, and with this slightly unbalanced hand spades might prove to be a superior contract.

Q. 7—As South you hold:

AJ752 ♥KJ4 ♦83 ♣AKQ
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 3 ♠ Pass
3 ♥ Pass ?
What do you bid now?

A.—Five spades. If partner can protect against the loss of two diamond tricks you wish him to contact for slam; and he should place the construction on your five spade bid. The Blackwood bid would not be at all helpful to you, for the slam might be there even if partner has only one ace, if he has, for example, a singleton diamond.

Q. 8—As South you hold:

AJ752 ♥KJ4 ♦83 ♣AKQ
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 3 ♠ Pass
3 ♥ Pass ?
What do you bid now?

The Blackwood bid would not be at all helpful to you, for the slam might be there even if partner has only one ace, if he has, for example, a singleton diamond.

Q. 8—As South you hold:

AJ752 ♥KJ4 ♦83 ♣AKQ
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ 2 ♦ 2 ♥ 2 ♠ Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—There is a choice between three and four hearts, and we have a slight preference for the latter. Partner's free raise to two hearts indicates a good hand, and with the adverse overall of two diamonds it is highly likely that partner's values will be in the black suits, which should make the hand fit very well.

Q. 9—As South you hold:

AJ752 ♥KJ4 ♦83 ♣AKQ
The bidding has proceeded:

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♣ Pass 1 ♠ Pass

A.—Four clubs. This does not indicate a desire to play at the minor suit but, rather, a desperate bid on the way to what looks like a certain slam. The next step will depend upon the character of partner's response. In a less scientific atmosphere, even a direct sporting chance at a slam in spades would not be regarded as out of line.

New color cancels out carbon-copy drabness.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Learn Your Own Color Craft

Autumn's colors, always fashioned after nature herself at this time of year, are as lively, deep and jewel-rich as you might expect. Bright and brassy golds and greens lead the list, while fruit tones like grape, wine and plum are close-in favorites.

Stoney shades, too, like slate blue and rust are enjoying a big revival, along with the herbal hues such as curry, cinnamon, mustard and paprika. The ever-popular muted plaids can combine them all in new designs that continue the lowered-waistline trend that high fashion has come to love.

What will your color be? Investigate these new shades; you may be delightfully surprised at your own versatility. Not enough women apply color craft to themselves and their wardrobes. They repeat themselves season after season, afraid of venturing into new tones and combinations.

A color must have a name, for quick identification. But each "name" may have many different values . . . and some of these would be just right for your particular kinship of hair, eyes and skin. So, don't choose your fall colors by name alone.

Coloring your hair and revising the tone of your makeup to suit it may make a remarkable difference, too, in the range of colors becoming to you. If you are just planning hair coloring treatment, you have more reason than ever to study color craft, lest you dye yourself a shade away from the chance to experiment with more exciting costume colors.

Take up color craft as a complete unit. Start with the shade of your skin, the one feature you cannot alter too radically. Just as I tell you on the first page of my booklet, "Your Color Type," your skin is either warm or cool in cast. Pink or ivory undertones place you in the "warm" category. Or you are classified as "cool" if you detect blue tones.

My booklet tells you how to classify yourself, holding dead-white paper against the inside of your wrist while you stand in stark daylight. And it tells you more, much more, about your color possibilities once you link skin type to hair and eye coloring.

This is invaluable information for any woman planning her fall and winter wardrobe—and especially if she wants to try a new hair color. Send 10c and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to "Secrets of Charm," c/o this newspaper and the secrets of color craft can be yours. Please allow at least two weeks for delivery of booklet.

Common As Well As Clothes Sense Needed To Plan That College Wardrobe

College shops are flourishing and college boards functioning in stores across the country, to help you join the trek back to campus in style.

First, they advise, make an inventory of your current wardrobe, and of the clothes you are likely to need for classroom, sports, party, and dormitory wear. The brochures your school puts out will tip you off on the typical coed's attire, and what activities you're likely to participate in. Knowing in advance whether dress-up occasions are frequent or far between will help you determine the fashions suitable to your school. You won't end up being over-dressed, or having "not one thing" to wear.

Take along a minimum, not a maximum, wardrobe. You'll find it more practical to "fill in" from the shops on campus than to load your trunks and suitcases with clothing that only takes up space. Coordination, rather than quantity, is the sensible idea to mind when deciding on basics.

Choose clothes as right for your figure as for your campus activities. Knit dresses will be a fine fashion this season. If you've a smooth figure, then knitwear is a packageable, wearable, and right choice for you. Otherwise, stay with fashions that are softly bloused and draped, have color interest, big collars and easy fit. Don't forget about upkeep! You'll be right if you avoid dresses that must go to the cleaner every week, or home to mother via the laundry-bag route. Closet

Woman To Woman

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — Michael Greer's one designer ready to give television its dew.

That is — if you're willing to call condensation that develops from a hot bath a form of dew.

The dew from such condensation would cover the front of a television set not equipped with windshield wipers in the family bathroom — which is the place Greer figures television now has a rightful place.

But as Greer sees it, the television in the bathroom — ideally — should be placed in a spot where it would have a reasonable chance of escaping the steam from a hot bath.

Fact is — he recently designed such a setting for a bathroom television hereabouts. He got around the dew by placing the TV set in a niche off the bathroom — a niche nicely carpeted, floor and walls.

The carpet, he said in an interview, absorbs some of the condensation, leaving the screen relatively clear. It also soaks up sound.

Greer is chairman of the board of the National Society of Interior Designers. His model room, featuring TV in the bathroom, was among new designs featured at a Westinghouse "World of Home Entertainment Exhibit" at the national design center.

His design was one of twenty imaginative settings by seven of the nation's foremost interior designers. Seeded throughout the room designs were TV and stereo units keyed to home fashion styling.

Greer, now the other side of 40, served as a personnel officer in World War II and in the Korean War. He is a major in the Air Force reserve. He studied designing under the GI bill of rights.

Keeping Up With Hollywood by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — Yves Montand who's never been one to turn down a big buck, is reading the script before he says yes or no.

He returned to Paris Friday. I asked him why Simone Signoret, his wife, left for Europe two days ahead of him, and I read that she was in Venice. He said she had three days of wardrobe fittings for her French film, "The Bad Move," and that he was meeting her in Paris where she promised to wait for him.

Yves starts "Time on My Hands" with Ingrid Bergman Sept. 12, giving him only a few days between pictures. He just finished "Sanctuary" with Lee Remick at 20th Century-Fox.

He frankly told me he was sorry that he couldn't go to the hospital to see Marilyn Monroe. "But people talk so much," said Yves, "and my visit might be misunderstood. I told Simone I had grown very fond of Marilyn while we were on the picture 'Let's Make Love,' but that doesn't mean I am in love with Marilyn."

"I think the gossip started when she came to see me off at the airport when I left for Paris. She brought champagne, and we sat in the car and talked for a long time. But I have been married for 11 years to Simone, and I am not going to break up my marriage," said the charming Yves. Simone will be working on "The Bad Move" while Yves is busy with "Time on My Hands."

$25,000 cash for eight hours tell is probably the largest sum ever offered any movie actor. Yet, Al Zugsmith tells me this, he offered Cary Grant—PLUS one-half ownership in "Confessions of an Opium Eater" for one day's work. Zugsmith, a shrewd showman, figures Cary's worth it. "Confessions of an Opium Eater" is a modernization by scriptwriter Robert Hill of the classic by the English writer, Thomas de Quincey.

Zugsmith has moved the time from 1802 to 1920, and changed the locale from London's Limehouse to San Francisco. Cary

Millie Perkins telephoned to tell me her side of her suspension by 20th Century-Fox. She said, "It's been two and a half years since I made 'Diary of Anne Frank,' and I was never offered anything at the studio until I changed agents. My new agent went to 20th and said I was eager to work. They gave me 'Tess of the Storm Country' in which I would have only 10 days work, and I didn't feel this role was right to follow 'Anne Frank,' and neither did my agent."

Anita Loos, who is in town for a few days for the funeral of her brother, Dr. Clifford Loos, tells me "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" opens in Paris Dec. 13 in the historic Danou Theater, with a French cast. At about the same time it opens in London with Julie Wilson as the star.

"We can't put 'Gentlemen Prefer Blondes' on as a musical because 20th Century-Fox bought the rights," said Anita. "Meanwhile I'm writing a movie on one of Colette's short stories. It's the 'Claudine' series."

An innovation at the huge garden party Helen Noga gave for Johnny Mathis was the introduction of Mike Clifford, a new singer. Johnny couldn't have been cuter introducing Mike as "my 16-year-old protégé." Later Mike confided in me that he is not 16—he's 17. "Well," I told him, "that makes you nearer my age."

Patti Page, Charlie O'Curran, Lee Remick, William Colleran, Edd "Kookie" Byrnes (who introduced himself to me as Johnny Mathis), Clint Eastwood, Barbara Rush and Warren Cowan, Jay Kanter, Jimmy McHugh, Roger Moore, Lindsay and Phil Crosby and their wives (Phil asked me if Gary is getting married), Letitia Roman and so many of the young generation and others I didn't know, were on hand. Johnny opens at the Greek Theater on Monday.

Labor Day And The Campaign

Sen. John F. Kennedy, with the official endorsement of the American Federation of Labor-Congress of Industrial Organizations in his pocket, kicks off his Presidential campaign, as have Democratic standard-bearers Adlai E. Stevenson and Harry S. Truman before him, at the traditional Labor Day rally in Detroit's Cadillac Square, but the political significance of the event could easily be exaggerated. Despite the usual preference of labor's top leaders — particularly those of the CIO — for Democratic candidates, labor's 18 million union members no more make up a cohesive political action force than is Labor Day a holiday limited to the special celebrations of organized labor.

Labor Day is traditionally observed by rallies such as that in Detroit, by special church services, and by union picnics from Texas to beyond the Canadian border. But the chances are that Mr. Union Member and his family will spend the day much as do their neighbors — at the ball game or the races, picnicking, fishing, swimming, or on the highways.

By the same token, AFL-CIO President George Meany, who makes no bones of his personal advocacy of the Kennedy candidacy, denies that there is any such thing as the "labor vote." In mid-August he asserted that it is "bunk" for any unionist to pretend that he controls "even one vote besides his own." And most certainly many union members and more of their wives voted for Eisenhower in 1952 and 1956 even though Stevenson was labor's darling. All the same, Republicans this year take quite seriously organized labor's plans to spend $500,000 of union funds to get the 13½ million AFL-CIO members and their families registered.

Oregon, a non-industrial state, made Labor Day a legal holiday in 1887. It is now celebrated in every state of the Union and in Canada, and its character is far removed from the May 1 Labor Day of Socialist-oriented unions abroad.

These Days

Geography

All sorts of new places and new names appear in the events of the day and as it is impossible to understand what is going on without a working knowledge of geography, I looked around for a good one. Back when I went to school, geography was a separate subject and we had to study it, drawing maps, tracing them sometimes, filling them in with variegated crayons, putting in the place names, so that one had an idea where a place was and what kind of people lived there and what they did for a living and how one thing related to another.

Nowadays, it appears, geography is all mixed up with other subjects and is part of the social sciences which is a mixed up subject, not meaning the same thing to two social scientists. So it was a bit difficult to find the kind of book I wanted which would educate me about places and peoples.

So, I bought a geography from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D.C. This is a volume prepared by the Air Force for its ROTC, "Military Aspects of World Political Geography," and it is a mighty good book and very helpful, indeed.

Nations are multiplying like flies and soon the United Nations will have as many members as the United States Senate has legislators. And if each one wants to make a speech on each subject that comes up, the General Assembly will exist under a permanent filibuster. To understand what is going on, a person requires a re-reading of history and geography. This is particularly true concerning the new nations of Africa, a continent about which most of us know nothing. Yet Africa has been in the news, as it were, for more centuries than the Americas.

The peoples of Africa are mostly various shades of black although not all of them go by the generic term of Negroes.

For instance, Hannibal's armies that marched on Rome during the Punic Wars (218-201 B.C.) were led by a dark-skinned Semitic people called the Carthaginians who were descendants of the Phoenicians who were probably the Philistines, mentioned in the Bible as being sometimes the friends and most often the enemies of the Hebrews when Saul, David, Solomon and their descendants ruled over Israel. These people intermarried undoubtedly with the Hamitic peoples of whom the present Ethiopians are the best examples. These do not regard themselves as Negroes. The Bantus in the news today, however, are Negroes.

As the Portuguese, Spaniards, Dutch, French and British have been invading and settling in various parts of Africa since the 15th century, and as the Romans, Vandals, and other European conquerors there even earlier, to say nothing of the Turks, Arabs and other Moslem conquerors, the peoples of many parts of Africa are of very mixed origin.

In fact, as one reads geography, the question must arise as to why peoples look so different. Why are some of one color and other of another? Is it the sun? Is it the food they eat? Is it the natural environment? The Bible has a simple explanation in the story of Noah's sons, but that does not give us an inkling into the varieties of human beings that are found upon the face of the Earth. What makes a Lumumba rise above a mass of illiterate almost savage men and women? Is it education? Does schooling change personality to that extent? From what part of Africa did Adam Clayton Powell's ancestors come or Alexandre Dumas' or Ralph Bunche's?

There is so much to know and life is so short that one hardly gets started before his day comes. Well, I am just beginning to study Africa to try to understand what it contains. I recall that when I first heard of China and the Chinese, it was quite simple: China had no snow; the Chinese ate rice; the Chinese were all short and thin, etc., etc. Then I lived in China and discovered that everything, but everything, I had heard about that country was false. I soon learned that China was like any other place and that latitude and longitude affected the lives of people, that snow fell in winter and it was hot in summer and that there was a North and a South and that they were different.

Without geography, it is impossible to understand peoples, politics or economics.

Someone Else With Knee Trouble

Nikita Shows He Doesn't Understand U.S.

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — So Nikita Khrushchev is coming to the United Nations General Assembly in New York later this month. Maybe, since he is trying to get lots of publicity, he might even go on Jack Paar's TV show!

As the Soviet boss will be arriving in the midst of the Presidential campaign, he will have an opportunity to add to his insults of the outgoing President of the United States by insulting the next President, too.

The Soviet dictator just a few days ago called both Vice President Nixon and Senator Kennedy "representatives of big capital" and "lackeys of monopoly capital." He became personal as he spoke contemptuously of Mr. Nixon as "the son of a grocery clerk."

Khrushchev continually shows his lack of understanding of the rules of common courtesy. He comes to this country despite the fact that he has not been invited. He blandly ignores his own action in extending an official invitation to the President of the United States to visit the Soviet Union and then cancelling it in pique.

Because the United Nations buildings happen to be located inside the United States and enjoy a kind of diplomatic status, the Soviet Premier can come to this country as the head of the Soviet delegation to the Assembly without requiring any invitation or other action by the United States government.

One thing is clear. President Eisenhower is under no obligation to welcome the Soviet propagandist-in-chief or to take official notice of his visit to America. Mr. Eisenhower can make any speeches on disarmament that he wishes to make to the world. It is unlikely that the President will attend those sessions of the United Nations at which the Soviet Premier is present.

Just what is Khrushchev's game or real purpose in coming to the United Nations meeting? Propaganda, of course. He believes that his speeches will get wider publicity than those on the Soviet viewpoint toward disarmament which might have otherwise been made by his foreign minister. The Premier, in his own clumsy way, may think also that perhaps he is making a gesture of good will toward this country which will make up for the rudeness he exhibited at the Paris "summit" conference. He may still be under the illusion that Mr. Eisenhower doesn't stand high in the opinion of the American people.

In fact, Khrushchev's speeches all along have given the impression that he believes the people of this country are friendlier to Communism than is their own government, and that it's only a question of time—perhaps a generation or two—when American "liberalism" will be indistinguishable from Communism.

By coming to America now, Nikita Khrushchev may be compounding the blunders he has committed in his previous handling of the United States government's policies and pronouncements. He made a gross error by wrecking the "summit" conference at Paris when he might have given a concession here and there and gotten one in return which he could have used for propaganda before his own people as a big victory for "peace."

But shrewd and agile-minded as the Soviet dictator is, he completely misunderstands American psychology. By his insults flung at Mr. Eisenhower at Paris, he did more to unify American public opinion behind the President than any-

THE GORE POLL — Senator Albert Gore, Tennessee Democrat, took a poll to determine the Presidential preferences of residents of the District of Columbia, who don't even have the vote. But after going to all the trouble and expense of sounding out sentiment in Washington, he clammed up and wouldn't make the results public.

Now, somewhat belatedly for the guidance of delegates to the conventions, he has disclosed that Senator Kennedy won it. Such non-starters as Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. and Maj. John D. Eisenhower got some 25 per cent of the vote cast, against Kennedy. Nixon and the whole host of names that were in the news as Presidential potentials at the time.

Oddly enough, Gore became the principal individual in Congress to attack the validity of the whole idea of polling the voters. He delivered a tough speech in the Senate, calling for an investigation of the possible evil influence of poll results on the country's political thinking.

Perhaps Gore's own experience convinced him of the unreliability of public opinion polls.

ODDMENTS — It was Rep. H. R. Gross (R.), Iowa, who forced adjournment in the House of Representatives when it tried to convene for the post-convention session. House majority leader John W. McCormack of Massachusetts panned it. "The gentleman from Iowa has done us a gross injustice."

Rep. Edgar Hiestand of California, mindful of the old slogan, "Two cars in every garage," has suggested another for the prosperous 1960s: "The car you hit may be your own."

The Accident Record Of Competitive Sports

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Fatal accidents occur occasionally in competitive sports but the exact number is not known. Football and boxing have the worst reputation, baseball, basketball, skating, and ice hockey being relatively safe by comparison. The risk is greater for the inexperienced high school athlete who is not fully developed physically, especially when the school is unable to purchase proper equipment.

Football is a wonderful sport but even the best player is of no value to the team when injury forces him to sit on the side lines. In other words, he must learn to avoid injury and wear the gear that offers maximum protection. It is the responsibility of the coach to teach safety precautions, especially at the high school level.

In addition, athletic departments in most schools are finding that a pre-season physical examination pays dividends. It helps weed out boys with defects that might be aggravated by athletics. Prompt medical attention of the injured by a physician brings quicker relief and may prevent a permanent disability.

There is no substitute for experience. There were 108 deaths from football during the 5 year period 1955-59, according to the American Football Coaches association. None was among National Football League players.

Eighty-one of these mishaps were associated with body contact, such as tackling or blocking. There were 51 deaths among high school players and several fatalities among sand lot players. The remainder stemmed from indirect causes such as heat stroke or heart failure.

Baseball is much safer. There have been no fatal injuries in the major leagues since 1920. An occasional death is reported among the amateurs but the number is insignificant, considering that 2 million boys and girls participate in the game annually.

U.S. Strategists Say Russia Could Invade America In Future War

(Editor's note — While Drew Pearson is taking a brief vacation, his column is being written by his associate, Jack Anderson.)

WASHINGTON — For the first time since the War of 1812, the United States is vulnerable to invasion. This is the sober conclusion of Pentagon planners whose job it is to anticipate enemy moves.

Traditionally the Russians have used heavy bombardment to soften an enemy, then the human wave to capture and loot. There is now evidence that the Red Army regards intercontinental missiles as a global extension of artillery to pave the way for airborne infantry.

From jigsaw pieces of intelligence, our strategists have formed an idea of how an invasion might come:

1. The first blow would have to be a haymaker — a sudden storm of ICBMs from Russia and smaller rockets from submarines. These would be directed primarily against our retaliatory forces to cancel out a counter-blow against the Soviet homeland.

Marked for simultaneous destruction would be our bomber bases, missile sites, nuclear stockpiles, command centers. Most strategists believe the big cities would largely be left alone as spoil for the invaders. What gain would there be if our factories were blasted to bits and our skilled workers killed off. Pillage and enslavement have always been the Communist way of war.

Swarms From The Skies

2. While the nation was still numb from the pounding, paratroopers would swarm down from the skies. They would seize airfields, radio and television stations, telephone switchboards, highway and railroad centers, military posts.

The Russians, remember, were the first to develop paratroop operations. As far back as 1932, Soviet citizens took up parachuting as a "military sport." The Russians were also the first to explore the short, polar air routes between Russia and America. In 1937, a Soviet polar flight reached Portland; another made it to San Jacinto, Calif.; a third vanished in the Arctic.

3. With the downpour of paratroopers would also come commandos from below the seas. During World War II, the Russians went in for submarine-carried commandos. They probably would be smuggled ashore to cut roads, blow up installations, sow confusion and fear.

Our planners doubt that home-grown Reds would play much part in the invasion. Because a leak would alert the U.S. defense force, the Russians probably wouldn't risk notifying their agents in advance.

4. The second airborne wave would arrive in giant transports which would land on captured fields. Since early 1956, the Russians have been building up their transport fleet.

Air Marshal Pavel Feodorovich Zhigarev, the Red air force chief, was put in charge. He organized the civilian aeroflot along military lines, installed bomber crews in passenger planes, adopted mobile ground equipment that could be easily airlifted to a future battlefield.

Cities As Hostages

5. Once the invasion got a foothold, the next airborne wave would bring in riot police trained to round up and control the civilian population. Instead of taking individual hostages as the Nazis did, the Russians could be expected to blow up entire cities in order to force obedience.

It is also possible that chemical weapons might be used to cow the people. Not only have the Communists vast experience in brainwashing and terrorizing whole populations, but nerve gases have been developed that have turned cats into cowards against mice.

Our planners agree that the Russian general staff must have war plans for every eventuality, including a complete blueprint for invading the United States. But this does not mean an invasion is imminent.

Even if the cold war should unexpectedly burst into blazing fury, many military men believe the Red army would be preoccupied keeping Europe and Asia under control.

But the fact, now privately acknowledged in the Pentagon, that an invasion is possible is one reason this column has been crusading for a stronger America.

Socialite Goes On A Raid

Mrs. Correll Kearns, the socialite wife of the Pennsylvania Congressman, has been having delightful adventures as Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield's hired crusader against pornographic literature.

She led a small task force, including chairman Millie Crom of the San Diego committee for decency and two male escorts, on a foray across the Mexican border last week to investigate the evils of Tijuana. They bought up a batch of obscene pictures and filthy literature with the cooperation of Mexican cab drivers who, upon learning they were in the market, deluged them with offers.

The smut raiders also managed to smuggle their pornographic booty past the border guards, much to the indignation of Mrs. Kearns who thought the guards should have searched them. The pornography is now in the custody of postal inspectors for use in Postmaster General Summerfield's anti-obscenity campaign. (Copyright 1960, By The Bell Syndicate)

He felt her stir and he lifted his face from the pillow and squinted at the clock. It was 8 a. m. She was sitting on the side of the bed, yawning, blindly wiggling her toes into mules. "Where you going?" he said. His head, big and rough with pencil lines of gray showing at the temples, fell back onto the pillow.

"Groceries," she said. "Nothing is in."

He tried to think about what she said, but sleep dragged him deep into the mattress and he was gone. She heard the deep, slow rhythm of his breathing, and she turned to look at him and she shook her head. He was her love, but he was a poor husband. Fifteen years ago, she had taken Tom Kelly for better or for worse, but the bride always assumes that it will be for better.

Kelly made a good living. He drove a trailer truck on long haul jobs and he was away a lot of the time and he sent money. Not enough, but he sent some. He had two hobbies: booze and other women. Sometimes, after a week or two, Tom came home so sick that he could hardly stand. Sometimes he had lipstick on his shirts, and, once or twice, he had a letter in his wallet he shouldn't have kept.

The only consolation Ruth had was that he always came back to her. Not as a husband, and not as a penitential. Still, he came home. She made herself believe that the other women meant no more to Tom than one more for the road. In fact, each of them represented one more for the road.

She stood and slipped the cheap nightgown off her skinny frame and scratched the back of a shoulder. She wasn't much, she knew. Not pretty of face or figure, and no mental giant. Years ago, when she had thought of walking out on him, she used to stare at the bony face, the long nose, in the mirror and murmur: "Who would have me?"

Now it was different. Ruth dressed in her best, put her nicest earrings on, made sure her seams were straight, and lipped out. She closed the door softly and went into the garage and took the car.

Tom was having breakfast at 11 when she got back. "Where you been?" he said. "I had to get my own breakfast." She pulled light gloves off her fingers and unscrewed the earrings. "I told you," she said. He squinted at the kitchen clock.

"Three hours for groceries?" he growled. She nodded. Tom began to frown. "You always get dressed up to kill for the grocery clerk?" She shrugged. "I felt like getting dressed," she said. He put his fork down. "Tell me," he said softly, "where are the groceries?"

She looked down at the earrings rolling in the palm of her hand. She appeared to be nervous. "I'm sorry, Tom," she said. "I didn't go for groceries." He wiped his mouth and stood. He was a big man with a paunch.

"Then where?" he said. She fidgeted. "To the Women's Shop on Broad Street. I took the car." The husband began to study his wife as though he had not seen her, truly seen her, for a long, long time. "What did you buy?" he said. She grinned. "A fall dress and a hat." It looked like an easy way out.

"All right, all right," he bellowed, pounding the table. "Where the hell are they?" The grin died and she looked at him as though begging for mercy. "I," she said and stopped. Then she started again. "I was short, Tom. I put five dollars on them. They said I could pick them up some other time."

He ran his stubby fingers through his hair. "At eight o'clock in the morning?" he said. He glared at his wife and went into the bedroom. Later, they went out. As he slid into the driver's seat, Tom looked at his wife and said: "Don't try to put anything over on me, Doll. I know all the tricks. You're playing my game."

They stopped at her sister's house and Tom went out for a drink and phoned the Women's Dress Shop. He told the woman that his wife had been in that morning and had put a deposit on a dress and a hat. "I'm sorry," the woman said. "Mrs. Kelly hasn't been in this store for weeks."

Tom Kelly bought three more dresses. Then he phoned his sister's house. "Put Ruth on," he said. When Ruth got to the phone, he said: "You haven't been there. You didn't buy no dress or hat. I don't know what your story is, Doll, but no matter what it is, I'm not buying it. By rights I ought to kill you. My advice is: stay right where you are. Don't come home. I don't need you."

Ruth hung up and turned to her sister. She had tears in her eyes. "It didn't work, Sis," she said. "You said if I made him think there was another man, he'd get jealous and come back to me. It didn't work."

Her sister looked shocked. "Me!" she shrieked. "You have a nerve. I never told you no such thing."

Orioles Sweep N.Y. Series, 5-2; Pirates Top Phils, 5-3

Chuck Estrada Rings Up 16th Over Yankees

Seventh Straight Win Gives Birds Two Games Lead

BALTIMORE (AP) — The New York Yankees ended their scoring famine after 36 innings Sunday, but it was too little and too late as the Baltimore Orioles won 6-2, sweeping a three-game series.

Pitcher Chuck Estrada kept the Yankees at bay for seven innings on only one hit. After they scored twice in the eighth, Hoyt Wilhelm stopped them.

The seventh straight victory by the Orioles gave them a firm two-game hold on first place over the Yankees.

Estrada Wins 16th

Estrada, who had the crowd of 34,587 anticipating a no-hit game and a third straight whitewashing of the Yankees, was credited with his 16th victory. The 22-year-old rookie has lost eight while setting a season record for an Oriole pitcher.

Bill Skowron's single with two out in the seventh was the first hit off Estrada. In the eighth, however, Clete Boyer and pinch-hitter John Blanchard started off with singles and Gil McDougald broke the Yankee run drought with a sacrifice fly.

Yogi Berra singled in Blanchard for another run and with the Yankees trailing only 3-2, Wilhelm was called in to kill the threat.

Relievers Are Wild

The Orioles promptly scored three runs with the aid of three walks from relief pitchers Ryne Duren and Luis Arroyo. The latter walked in one run and the others came in on a single by Jim Gentile and an infield out while the Yankees were trying to pull a double play.

Bill Stafford was the losing pitcher after winning his first two major league games.

The Orioles jumped off to a 3-0 lead on single runs in the third, fourth and fifth innings.

Singles by Brooks Robinson and Gentile pushed home Gene Woodling after he walked to start the scoring.

Opposite field doubles figured in the next two Oriole runs. Lefty Gene Stephens smacked a two-bagger to left and scored on Estrada's single to center.

Whitey Ford relieved Stafford on the Yankee mound and was touched for the fifth inning run. He walked Gentile and Gus Triandos drove him home on a double to right.

Simmons Is Victor Over Chicago, 4-3

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Bob Nieman drove in all the runs with a sacrifice fly, triple and a home run to give Curt Simmons and the St. Louis Cardinals a 4-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs Sunday.

Simmons, who held the Cubs in check for seven innings, was relieved after he yielded an inning opener single to Frank Thomas in the eighth. Lindy McDaniel took over to preserve the triumph which gave Simmons a 6-3 mark.

The veteran left-hander had no decisions against Chicago this season or last but the victory boosted his career mark over the Cubs to 16-15.

The Cubs threw a scare into the crowd when they counted their last run off McDaniel in the ninth on an interference call on catcher Hal Smith. Heist's fourth hit, a single and Ernie Banks' run-scoring single.

Ellsworth, who went all the way for the Cubs, now has a 6-11 mark.

Labine Excels In Relief For Wilmer Mizell

Pounded Ball At .547 Clip; Robertson Is Homer King With 7

Preserves Latter's 10th Win; Clemente, Hoak Clout Homers

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The Pittsburgh Pirates bolstered their stretch drive in a bid for their first pennant in 33 years Sunday with an 11-hit outburst and a 5-3 victory over the Philadelphia Phils.

The league leaders prepared for a crucial series against the second-place Milwaukee Braves opening Labor Day with extra-base power supplied by Roberto Clemente, Bob Skinner and Don Hoak.

Winning pitcher Vinegar Bend Mizell, who was relieved in the sixth after allowing all the Phils' runs, was the only Pirate starter who failed to hit safely.

Labine Relief Star — Clem Labine turned in a spectacular 3-1-3 inning relief stint to preserve Mizell's 10th victory.

The veteran right-hander allowed the 1959 batting champ with only one hit and struck out five of the 12 batters he faced.

Both teams scored in the second inning. Pancho Herrera doubled to right center and Tony Gonzalez hit his eighth home run into the right field stands.

The Pirates wiped out the 2-0 deficit in quick order. Hoak hit his 14th homer in the Pirates' second and Mizell walked. Dick Groat, the leading Pirate hitter, singled and Bob Skinner crashed a two-run double against the left field scoreboard and advanced to third on the throw to the plate.

Rocky Nelson singled home Skinner to put Pittsburgh ahead to stay.

Philadelphia reduced the Pirate lead to 4-3 when Ken Walters doubled in the sixth and Herrera smacked a 3-2 pitch for a single. Labine was waved in from the bullpen.

Roberto Hits 14th — Clemente led off the seventh with his 14th homer, a shot into the right-center stands. Smoky Burgess singled and Dick Farrell relieved Jim Owens, who was charged with his 12th defeat.

The victory was the 80th for the Pirates — two more than they registered in the entire 1959 season.

Flintstone	2	25	.074

It's a fight to the finish in the Pen-Mar Baseball League.

The pennant race is now tied up between Hyndman and Barrelville and the battle for the third and fourth place playoffs spots are still undecided as the regular season draws to a close today.

Barrelville's Old Exports knocked Hyndman for the League leadership yesterday by blanking Mt. Savage's Old Germans on the latter's field by the score of 6-0 while Frostburg was upsetting the Hyndman Merchants in the Mountain City to the tune of 9-4.

Moorefield took over third place by noosing out the Flintstone Farmers at Moorefield, 2-1, and the Centerville Reds dropped into a three-way tie for fourth place by dropping a 14-9 slugfest to the Salisbury Cardinals at Centerville. Mt. Savage, Frostburg and Centerville are deadlocked for fourth place as the teams engage in their 28th and final contests today.

Peace Beats Hyndman

Ralph Peace, one-time Penn State University twirler, hurled Frostburg's Merchants to victory over Hyndman and kept Manager Joe Langan's team in the running for a playoff berth. The win was the fifth for Peace against three losses this season. Vohn Lehman, Jim Lehman and Robert "Ab" See topped on the rubber for Hyndman. Lehman was tagged with the loss.

In addition to pitching a two-hitter, Peace led Frostburg's 13-hit assault with three safeties in four trips, including a triple and double. Gene Zumpano, Robert Keister and Gary Wolford collected two hits each. Clingerman, Wolford and Peace collected triples and Zumpano, Keister, Lewis and Peace rapped two-baggers for Frostburg. Gene Stair and Jim Leydig had the hits credited to Hyndman.

Peace struck out five, issued only one pass and hit three batters with pitched balls. Lehman yielded 7 hits in 3 1/2 innings and Leydig gave up five safeties in 2 1/2 frames.

Raines Fans Twelve

Bobby Raines tossed a 6-hitter and struck out 12 as Barrelville shut out Mt. Savage. The victory was Raines' fifth against two losses this season.

Raines and "Pooch" Lewis paced the Old Exports' attack with three hits each. Dorci Klein blasted a two-run triple and Galen McGregor and Bill Clauson garnered two safeties each. One of Lewis' blows was a two-bagger. Thirty-six hits were recorded in the game at Centerville in which Salisbury was returned the victor. The Cardinals put the game on ice in the third inning when they scored eight runs.

Salisbury racked up a total of nine extra base hits. John Keister accounted for four of the Cards' 19 blows, including a homer and triple. George Lauder had a triple and two doubles and a single and Jones obtained three singles. Taylor, Hill and Atwood had two blows each. Dave Rose and Alton Growden headed the Reds with four hits in five trips each. Mel Nee and Homer Rose each hit safely thrice. Growden pounded a pair of triples. The win gave Carey an 8-7 record for the season.

Vance Tames Farmers

Youthful Dave Vance turned in a five-hit performance as Moorefield downed Flintstone.

Will Newhouse had three singles and a base on balls and Bob Keller had two safeties for the West Virginia club. Singles by Harlan Hot and Bob Keller gave the Hardy Countians their two runs in the first inning. Flintstone also scored its lone run in the opening frame on an error.

Scores: Hyndman 200 000-4 2 4 Frostburg 319 210 000-3 1 2 Lehman, Leydig (4), See (7) and Bryant, Peace and Wolford. Loser—Lehman.

Russians Hold Big Lead In Olympics

By JOHN GALE

ROME (AP)—America's battered but far from beaten Olympic forces face up this week to closing a gap of 39 1/2 digits—the difference between sweet success and a hard swallow.

With the Olympic games ending their final phase, the up-and-down U.S. squad is trailing the Russians.

The powerful Soviet steamroller has compiled 331 2-3 points in the unofficial team standings. The Yanks have 292.

Nobody is admitting it, but a second straight Olympic victory for the Russians would leave a sour taste around the American camp.

All the vast and fruitful realm of gymnastics lie ahead for the Russians. Only the Japanese are expected to make inroads on the heavy toll of gymnastic medals taken by the Soviets four years ago at Melbourne.

America's track and field squad—surprisingly beaten out of the sprint titles—must regroup for the final events on the card.

At least the United States goes into action edified by the example of its swimming team.

The American men collected six out of ten swim titles and the women five out of nine.

En route to their total of 11 gold medals—a staggering proportion of the total of 16 so far collected by the U.S. team compared with 19 by the Russians—the swimmers broke six world records.

They also recaptured dominance in the sport from the vaunted Australians.

American Basketball also looks likely to remain unchallenged—if only for these games. The U.S. team pulled out an 81-57 decision over Russia Saturday night and virtually clinched the Olympic title.

Rich Limestone Deposit Being Quarried In Area

FRANKLIN, W. Va. — Beautiful Germany Valley in the Seneca Caverns section of Pendleton County is the scene of a new industrial development which promises to contribute to the economic growth of this area.

The Germany Valley Limestone Company, a division of Greer Steel Company, Morgantown, has moved into the area between Riverton and Mouth of Seneca to operate one of the richest deposits of limestone east of the Mississippi River.

Of exceptionally high quality, the Germany Valley limestone tests more than 98 percent calcium carbonate. And the deposit is so large that its extent has not been accurately determined. Fred Western, plant superintendent, estimates it at 100,000,000 tons. He said the deposit extended about a mile in length and that it has an exposed surface about 1,500 feet wide.

There are two horizontal seams of the stone, each of which has a depth of 60 feet. The top seam tests more than 98 per cent calcium carbonate, and the second seam, which lies under the top seam, tests about 96 per cent calcium carbonate.

The operation involves 422 acres of land which was acquired from Gussie Hinkle and the late Verde A. Hinkle and H. R. Werner by State Geologist Paul H. Price and R. A. Raese and conveyed by them to the Greer Steel Company. Geologists have known of this immensely rich limestone deposit for many years, but because of the lack of transportation facilities it has never been economical to develop it.

Now, however, with the growing demand for high quality limestone and the increasing efficiency of truck transportation, officials of the new company are of the opinion that the time has come to market the stone.

Work began last November on the construction of the plant and already over a half-million dollars has been invested in machinery and construction work.

Three crushers have been installed as have four vibrator type screens with a total of 10 decks to produce the exact size of stone desired.

All the machinery is operated by electric motors, and to supply the electricity a power plant has been constructed about a quarter of a mile from the crushing plant. It houses three 475-horsepower generators which together produce 900 kilowatts of electricity. Thirty motors which vary from two to 300 horsepower have already been installed to operate the complex of crushers, screens and conveyor belts.

A storage silo which will hold 1,500 tons of stone has been constructed, and workmen are now busy adding a bagging plant which will be used to sack limestone dust in paper bags for shipment.

Assistant Plant Superintendent Warren Christopher explained that the company will produce crushed limestone in all sizes for all purposes. He said it will produce stone for use in the chemical industry, metallurgical stone for use in the steel industry, rock dust for use in coal mines to prevent dust explosions, glass sand, agricultural limestone and road aggregate.

Already a considerable amount of crushed stone has been shipped to Morgantown, and the plant is furnishing approximately 20,000 tons of stone for a road surfacing job on US Route 33 between Mouth of Seneca and Harman.

In addition to the plant superintendent and his assistant, the new company already is providing employment for 18 workmen, all of whom are area men.

Demo Victory Is Predicted By Candidate

MARLINTON, W. Va. (UPI) — A Democratic victory this fall was predicted Sunday by gubernatorial candidate W. W. Barron in an address to party members during a picnic at nearby Dunmore.

Barron said he could well understand why several thousands of dollars was being spent to construct a bomb shelter in the basement of the governor's mansion.

"On Nov. 8 when those votes hit the statehouse, they are going to need all the protection they can get from Democratic fallout," Barron declared. "Everywhere Republicans will need bombshelters this year because they simply talk rather than take action to make government a responsive, hard-working servant of the people."

Barron also attacked President Eisenhower and the Republican national administration. He noted the President had asked for more tax money to promote prosperity abroad.

"If new job opportunities are good for Asia, then certainly they are good for West Virginia—whose soldiers abroad and miners at home have contributed far more than their share to the cause of world freedom," he said.

Fourteen new voters were added during the registration last week. A total of 273 persons are eligible to vote in the primary and the election. Registrars were Mrs. John Dick and Sextus Hitt.

The election will be held October 4 from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. Present officials are Edward Duckworth, mayor; Luther Crites, Thomas Haywood Jr., William Smith Jr. and Kenneth Wilcox, commissioners.

Religion Today

Faiths Of Both Nixon, Kennedy Periodic Targets Of Hate Charges, Vilification

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

The two men in the current presidential race belong to religious traditions that have faced bursts of hostility and persecution in American history.

This, at least, is a point in common between Republican candidate Richard M. Nixon, a Quaker, and Democratic candidate John F. Kennedy, a Roman Catholic.

Both faiths have been periodic targets of hate campaigns and vilification.

"Down through our history, at various times and places, both of these groups have encountered instances of popular animus," says historian Dr. Ray W. Irwin, of New York University.

Their followers, in the country's early settlements, were subjected to ostracism, whippings and hangings. At intervals in most of the colonies, they were denied civil and property rights and banned from office.

They came to America originally as small minorities in a predominantly British Protestant setting, and although members played vital roles in the making of a nation, traces of the old antagonism have persisted sporadically through the years.

Each of the faiths has highly distinctive earmarks.

Quakers, still a tiny minority, consider themselves a "third way," neither Catholic nor ordinary Protestant. Catholics, whose numbers spiraled during 19th century immigration, consider theirs the only true church.

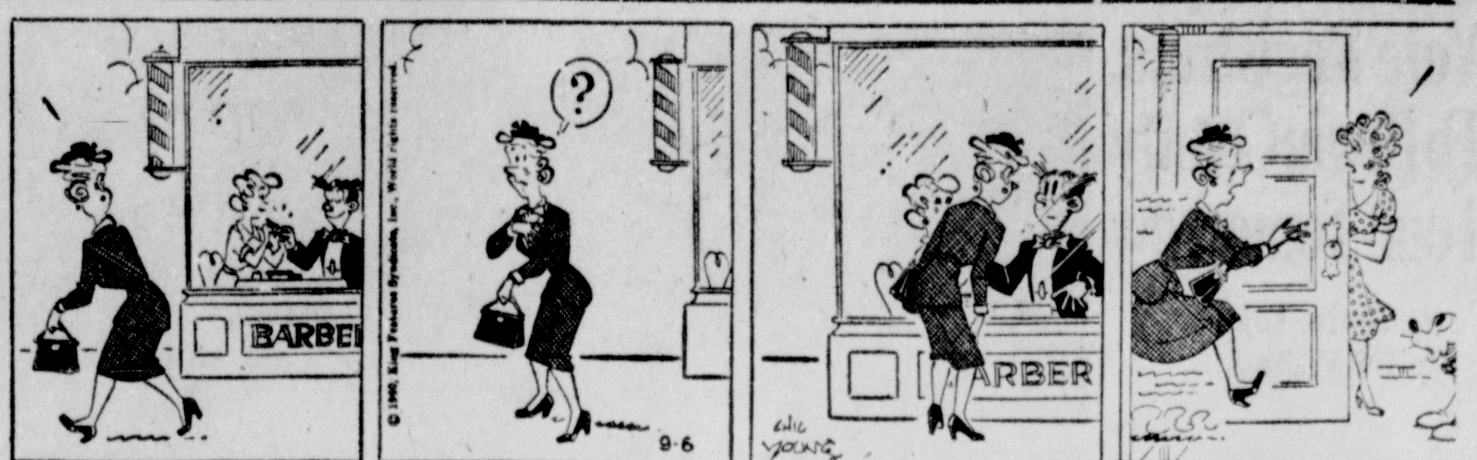

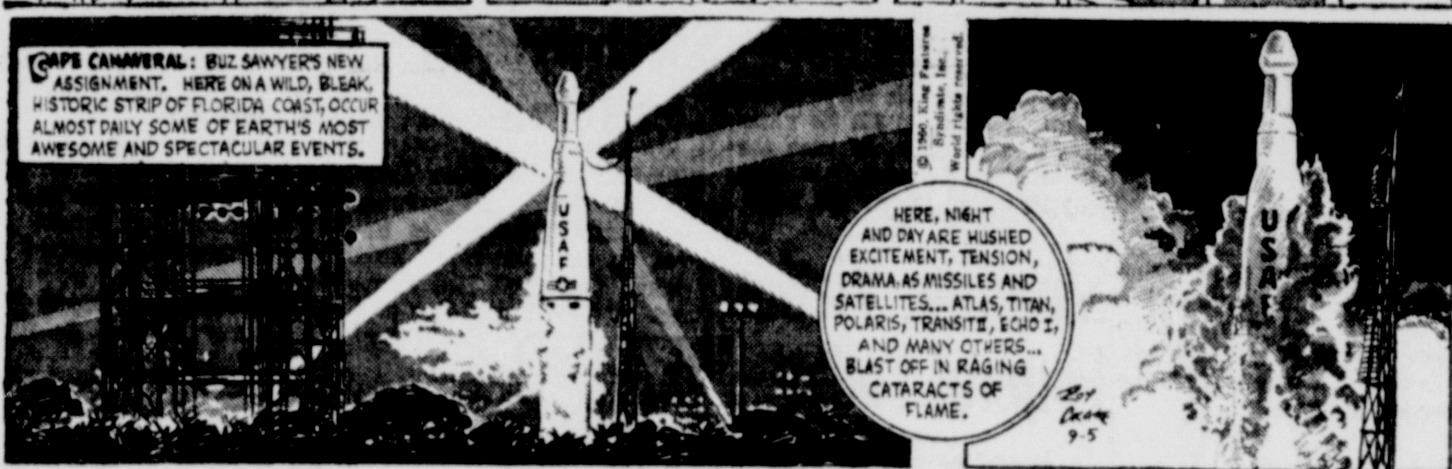

Actually, Quaker is a nickname for members of the Religious Society of Friends. There are about 122,000 of them in about 1,000 local "meetings" in this country. Catholics number 41 million in 17,000 local parishes.

The two have similarities. Children born into both Quaker and Catholic families, in a sense, inherit their faith, as Catholics baptized in infancy, or as "birth-right" Quakers.

Others also can become members, a Catholic by being "converted," a Quaker by being "convinced." Both faiths emphasize education for character, and have set up many schools and colleges of their own.

Both groups paid in blood for their origins, Catholics in the martyrdoms under ancient paganism, a heritage shared by all Christians, and Quakers by more than 15,000 executions after their rise in England in the 1600s.

"Our ads lack force and conviction! . . . Surveys show that readers are betting that decay germs will whip our toothpaste!"

"Let's not worry about young whippersnappers trying to take over the party, gentlemen! . . . Why, we've forgotten more promises than they can ever think of! . . ."

"You hang on to my hand, an' I'll hang on to Mom's hand, an' Mom'll hang on to . . . Dad, can YOU swim?"

"WOW! I must be growin'! I never seen THAT number before!"

Scout Retreat Meeting Set

The Catholic relations committee of Potomac Council, Boy Scouts will meet Wednesday at 8 p.m. at St. Mary's Church to make final plans for the retreat for Catholic scouts to be held this month at Camp Potomac near Oldtown.

The retreat will begin Friday, September 16 at 6 p.m. and will close Sunday, September 18 at 2 p.m., according to Rev. James V. Hobbs, assistant pastor of St. Mary's Church, who also is scout chaplain for the council.

Assisting Father Hobbs with arrangements is Joseph Marible, chairman of the Catholic committee.

Registration of all units and boys must be made at council headquarters by September 14. The cost of the retreat will be $3.50, which includes all meals and a special retreat neckerchief.

Airman and Mrs. Ronald H. Brant announce the birth of a daughter August 31 at Andrews Air Force Base Hospital, near Washington, D.C. The mother is the former Miss Shirley J. Sheetz of Cumberland. The paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert E. Brant, 206 Virginia Avenue.

Sanctuary Work Progressing

Work on the interior of the new sanctuary of Grace Baptist Church, 213 Greene Street, is progressing, according to Rev. W. Randolph Keefe Jr., pastor, who said a dedication of the new addition to the church will be held on October 16. The above pictures show a portion of the sanctuary which faces Greene Street. In the recessed section of the picture, the pulpit, choir loft and baptismal pool as well as a new transistor-type organ will be located. The church recently purchased property adjoining the edifice for use as a parking lot. The new auditorium will seat 250. Sunday school rooms will be under the auditorium.

Youngsters Spend Busy Summer At Playgrounds

Attendance at activities held by the City Recreation Department during the nine-week summer playground season totaled 58,030, according to Mrs. Eva Hogan, playground supervisor and assistant recreation director.

Youths Given Swim Lessons At Minke's

Twenty-six youths this summer completed swimming, life saving and water safety courses sponsored by the Corriganville Parent Teachers Association.

The courses, offered by the Allegany County Chapter of the Red Cross, were taught by Mrs. John McGuire at Minke's pool. She was assisted by her daughter, Helen McGuire, who is a water safety aide, and Carolyn Drumm.

Those who completed the beginner's swim course are Wayne Miller, Michael Hartman, Lloyd Kline, Allen Schlosser, Greg Morgan, Amy Deremer, Judy Glass, Jerry Rice, Maria Grabowski, Janice Cubbage and Kenny Kline.

Eight youths who completed the intermediate course include Mary Frances Bucy, Rhonda Grabowski, Kathy Duckworth, Barbara Kline, Sandy Sweitzer, James Garlitz, Randy Rice and Randy Hollar.

The lifesaving and water safety course was completed by Edward Garlitz, Susie Wolfe, Bonnie Rice, Nellie Baker, Terry Crabtree.

Miss McGuire renewed her certificate, Carolyn Drumm, who passed the test two years ago, also assisted the instructor.

Summer Flu Is Being Reported

Quite a few cases of illness accompanied by diarrhea are going around, the Health Department said yesterday.

The illness is usually of short duration, with flu-like symptoms. Dr. Ton van Strien, county health officer, said. Many of those affected, he said, complain of some muscular pain and headache.

He said the department has had no official report of the illness, as it is not a reportable disease.

Dr. van Strien suggested that if the ailment is accompanied by light diarrhea, one should stay at home until the stomach clears up. The family physician should be notified, he said, if the temperature rises.

Gravel Deposits To Be Removed

A local firm will begin removing gravel deposits from the bed of Wills Creek on Wednesday, according to City Engineer C. R. Nuzum.

The gravel will be hauled away by the Cumberland Cement and Supply Company under an agreement with the Corps of Army Engineers.

For some time, the firm has had a dragline in the Potomac River, cutting a channel to divert the stream so deposits which have built up below the Industrial Dam can be removed.

Paul Loren Kennell, 22-year-old Kennell's Mills, Pa., man died instantly in a two-car head-on collision at 4:50 p.m. Saturday two miles south of Hyndman on Pennsylvania Route 96.

Earlier in the day Woodrow Hutton, 20, of Flint, Mich., was killed when an auto in which he was traveling rammed into the rear of a tractor trailer on the Pennsylvania Turnpike east of Somerset. Another serviceman was injured.

Injured in the two-car collision was a Linwood Printy, 39, of Hyndman, who was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital where he is reported in "satisfactory" condition.

He was taken to the hospital in the ambulance of the Hyndman Volunteer Fire Company and was admitted with injuries to his left side and chest, together with multiple bruises and lacerations. Mr. Printy was unconscious upon arrival at the hospital but regained consciousness later.

Brother Died In Crash

Mr. Kennell, a son of James L. and Pauline (Shroyer) Kennell, of RD 1, Hyndman, was killed just three miles north of the point on Route 96 where his brother, James C. Kennell, met his death January 24, 1954 in a two-car accident.

Trooper Chester L. Rowan of the Bedford Detachment of Pennsylvania State Police was in charge of Saturday's investigation, assisted by Trooper Andrew Petyak.

Kennell was traveling south ascending the long gradual grade of Route 96 that leaves Hyndman.

Printy, a foreman for the George F. Hazellwood Company, was headed north. The apparent point of impact was in front of the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Cook, and the car Kennell was driving was knocked into the Cook's front yard.

Kennell, a Somerset County school bus driver, was born August 20, 1938, in Hyndman.

He is survived by his twin sister, Mrs. Pauline Leister, Hyndman; and three other sisters, Mrs. Earl Emerick, Kennell's Mills; Mrs. Lloyd Moore, Millsboro, Del., and Evelyn Sue Kennell, at home. He also leaves two brothers, Robert E. Kennell, RD 1, Hyndman, and Roy Kennell, at home.
